Dear Mrs. Rexer,

I took a look at the 35" diameter black locust tree located near the left rear corner of your house as requested.

The tree has extensive decay near the base and is growing on rock. This variety has a tendency towards being blown over in storms to begin with and with these defects it is much more at risk.

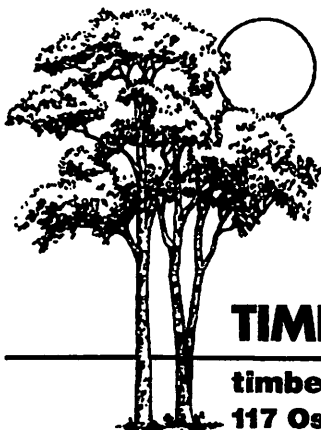

The tree has a significant lean over your home. If it is allowed to remain there, it will sooner or later fall on your house and because of its size serious damage to the structure will occur.

I would recommend removing this tree.
